You will recall that there are basically four conflict-handling styles, select two:

1. A problem-solving style which typically involves discussing problems and finding solutions which are acceptable to both
2. A conflict-engaging style which involves attacking and insulting the partner
3. A conflict-withdrawing style which involves wanting to hear what the partner has to say and continue to talk until its resolved.
4. A style which involves no willingness to agree and to never give in.
